

Roland Baader,

born 1940, has an MSc in Economics, and studied under the famous economist and social scientist of the Austrian School of Economics, the Nobel Prize winner Friedrich A. von Hayek. After running his own business for some 20 years, Roland Baader decided to concentrate on private study and freelance writing. He is ranked as one of the most outstanding libertarian thinkers of the German speaking world. To date, he has published 15 books, some 30 essays included in other books, and hundreds of articles for newspapers and magazines. Roland Baader is a member of the Mont Pèlerin Society and of the Property and Freedom Society.